QUESTIONS ASSESSMENT

The first of the Calumet avenue property owners to take the question of the assessment of benefits and damages to the courts is Dominick Dvorak.

He claims that the assessment of benefits and damages as levied by the city is inequitable and demands damages of $1,315. Dvorak owns all of the frontage on Calumet avenue between Sibley street and the alley north. None of the rest of the property owners in that locality remonstrated. They all bear their assessment without a murmur.

Autoist Is Sued.

As the result of a collision of an automobile and a motorcycle at Black Oak, in which accident Joe Dub was killed, John Dub, his father, has started an action for $2,500 damages against a man by the name of Sexton, whose christian name is unknown, the owner of the car.

This morning Deputy Sheriff George Block served papers on John Nimez attaching the car, which was placed in his possession after the accident.

The accident is alleged to have happened June 29, 1912. The complaint, which was filed by W. J. McAleer, alleges that Sexton's car was running on the wrong side of the road and that this was the cause of the accident. It is alleged further that Sexton had an unobstructed view of the road and that the accident was the result of carelessness.

OIL SPRINKLING

FAR PREFERABLE

Kills Dust Germs and Disease; Hammond People

Glad of Change.

The most commendable thing undertaken by the board of public works this spring, in the estimation of many Hammond people was the street sprinkling with oil. Dust and dirt are forgotten worries, and the whole city is better and healthier place to live in because of the improved sprinkling method which was first advocated by The Times and Fayette street on which The Times building is located was the first street in the city to be oiled two years ago.

Hammond has quite a number of macadamized streets, and on all of these, with the exception of those streets on which the Green Line has the right of way, the dust is laid with oil. Property owners along the Green Line were in hopes that this company would follow the example of the Gary and Interurban and sprinkle its right of way through the populated section of the city, with oil, but a short strip on State street east of Calumet avenue is the only one on which the Green Line would make the concession.

Will Improve Streets.

At first it was feared that a lot of the oil would be carried into the houses, but the judicious application averted any trouble from this source.

Three years ago, not a single street in Hammond was sprinkled. Then the people driven to desperation resorted to the water sprinkling hoping to get relief from the clouds of dust that rose with each gust of wind of passing automobile, but it was found that the water washed away the pavement, and that an hour after the water had been applied the street was as dusty as ever.

It was very unsatisfactory, and the board of works called a mass meeting at which the sentiment was unanimously in favor of the oil. The contract was awarded to John Prohl, who made a good job of it, doing really more than was required of him under the contract.

Under the contract another application of the oil is to be made later this season, and experience in other cities shows that next year the oil sprinkling will be even more effective than this year.

Close on Fridays.

The management of the S. W. Woolworth & Co. and Harry Minas & Co. five and ten-cent stores in Hammond, desire to announce that during the warm weather the stores will close at 6 o'clock on Friday nights. This will give the clerks a chance to get out and will relieve them from the strain of such a long day.

Awaiting Trial.

George Rogoff, the 15-year-old Chicago lad who was arrested by the Hammond police last week following the theft of a bicycle from William Hastings, was taken to Crown Point, where he is being held awaiting trial before Juvenile Judge McMahan.

Young Rogoff is well known in Hammond, where he was employed about a year ago. Since that time it is rumored that he has been implicated in a number of bicycle thefts in this vicinity, but the police as yet have not confirmed the report.

A CIRCUS PARADE WORTH SEEING

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Display of Horses, Animals and Cages Is Beautiful.

The movement was was attempted a few years ago to eliminate the parade feature of circus day has signally failed, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace Combined Shows are instrumental in retaining that part of the circus which is enjoyed by thousands who are not able to attend the performances. When this enterprise visits Hammond Monday, July 22, the population will turn out en masse, for they have the reputation of making a street parade well worth taking time to see.

While only a small percentage of the people can own automobiles and appreciate them, every man, woman, and child admires a beautiful horse. For years the name of Wallace has been synonymous for "fine horses," because he himself has always personally taken a pride in horse flesh. When he first embarked in the show business he adopted as a slogan, "The finest horses of any show on earth," and that he has lived up to it is attested by the millions of people who have seen the Wallace parade.

a hard fought battle, as Gary and Indiana Harbor will make a hard fight to gain a lead over Hammond, which heads the league by a margin of about three games.

Next Sunday Indiana Harbor will invade Hammond and the Indians will make every possible effort to capture the bacon. This week will see them in hard practice work, and from all rumors Indiana Harbor will come here with a number of new faces in their lineup. While the Indiana are doing this Manager Sohl of Hammond has not been idle, as he has ordered several releases and is making an effort to trade several men.

Other teams in the league are strengthening their lineups and will do their utmost to secure as strong an aggregation as possible. Crown Point, which took a big slump from the head of the league to the bottom of the ladder, is also getting busy and when Laporte invades the Hub next Sunday afternoon they will be surprised to see a strong and practically new lineup. Henning, who it was reported had quit the last year's champs, will be back in the game and with him five or six other strong players who were with the Hub the latter part of last season.
